Maintenance prices are on an annual basis and are provided by Design Simulation Technologies or a certified reseller.
Node-locked licenses are locked to a specific named computer and the product can only be used on that computer.
Dongle locked licenses use a USB security key (dongle). Any computer that has the dongle inserted can run the software.
Maintenance and support is included with the Annual License
The first year of technical support and maintenance is NOT included with initial paid up license purchase, it must be purchased separately.
